The Wilmington Herald vs. Gen. Scott. From the Herald of April 17, 1852. The Herald referreth to Mr. Stanly's letter in favor of Scott, and demandeth something better than "Lundy's

Lane, Vera Cruz, Cerro Gordo and Chapultepee."]

We have here given the most material portions of Mr. Stanly's letter, in justice to himself and the reader. The drift of the current is plainly perceptible-it is setting against Mr. Fillmore-the Scott stock is looming up. We are all sharers of the glory carved out at at the edge of the sword by this great commander .-The fame of the citizen is the property of the State. We are willing to concede him the possession of unrivalled military talent, of dauntless courage and tried patriotism. But we want something more .-What say you fellow voters, are you for Scott? Are you content with the guarantee of a life spent in the dy's Lane, Vera Cruz, Cerro Gordo, and Chapultepec? Or in these days when sectionalism runs riot over the land, will you require at this hero candidate's hands to resist with Constitutional means, the progress of that agitation so fraught with danger to the welfare of the country?

Let us wait and watch.

From the Herald of May 22, 1852. sented in the Baltimore Convention, and not by staying mainly through his influence ? a vay, and allowing Scott's nomination, play into the hands of Seward, Greely & Co., in this miserable style.]

But this nomination, much as they may desire it cannot be made, if they stay away from the Coavention in which his claims will be urged. And the result may be that Fillmore will lose the nomination because extra Compromise men withhold their votes precisely at the time most needed, and that too from a candidate they warmly desire. It will not do to say The Express adds: the transactions for the past few days have been immense, and the greater part of their work. It is showing conclusively who and the convention between him and Gen. Scott will be very close. For any portion of the South to obstinately withhold support, or refuse to advocate his claims in the only available arena, and at the proper. think better things of our neighbors. Georgia will will lead the people to ask and reflect upon the the ports, places, and rivers of the territories of hardly play into the hands of Seward, Greely & Co. question-Why should these Abolitionists oppose each party, wherever foreign commerce is permitted.

[The Herald having received intelligence of the nomination of Pierce by the Democratic convention, admitteth that Would not such a conclusion be both unreasonable the same security and protection as the nations of that when slavery shall have fulfilled its beneficent Since Monday, however, the general markets have feetly sound man, and further contendeth that Fillmore is

THE PLAIN DUTY OF THE WHIGS .- The nomination of Pierce for President, and the endorsement of the advances the prospects of Mr. Fillmore, in our opinion, very materially. It is evident that an out and out Compromise man must be put forward by the Whig nomination. There is no necessity for a pledge from him. He is known throughout the country as the especial friend of the Compromise, -has staked his Adpendently, and present for the approval of the Country this model President, and we have sufficient faith in the gratitude of the people to believe that they will warmly sanction the choice.

From the Herald of June 12, 1852. [The time for the meeting of the convention draweth nigh, and the Herald waxeth nervous, yea, seared, lest Scott should be nominated. It putteth the following queswavering comes not from the South, we can carry the day," and concludeth with anxiety lest "evil counsels should prevail, and the great Whig party of the country become

THE WHIG NATIONAL CONVENTION .- This body will assemble in Baltimore on Wednesday next, and we sincerely wish that its deliberations were over, and that the Convention had rendered an appropriate tribute to honesty and fidelity in the nomination of Mr. Fillmore for President. We will not stop to argue the question whether or no he deserves it; it will be conceded universally. If a conscientious and selfsacrificing discharge of duty constitute a claim upon the justice even of the party, Mr. Fillmore's right must stand paramount and confessed. This is an uncertain world, however, and we have numberless instances on record that desert is not always rewarded, and that high services are eclipsed in the manœuvrings of petty ambitions. Well, the Convention meets next Wednesthe other day for a similar purpose. The arrangements tive Committee. are more complete in this than in the former instance, however, the platform being enlarged, and matting belookers on, will be made. But these are minor points, should legislate not only for the present but the future, that it should preserve the National character of the Whig party intact, and not for the sake of temporary King in Georgia no longer a matter of any doubt. tr umph, hazard the very existence and fair fame of the party. If we bend to the domination of Seward new, where will we be four years hence. We hope on some Compromise man whose course has been open and above board. We care not for names. If wavering comes not from the South we can carry the day. We look forward to the proceedings of the Conven-

A letter from Washington, N. C., published in the Commercial of the 28th inst., shows the practical operation of the abolition slanders which are circulated at the South against Gen. Ellen Day. have a cherished memory, Which I would not forget ; A dear, delightful dream of love, That lingers round me yet: For in that dream I wonder back To years long passed away; And seem to be, the boy I was, When I met Ellen Day.

I was sixteen, she was two years less; And never to my sight, Had such a maiden form appeared, So like an angel bright.
We met, beneath the forest shade,
She was our Queen of May;
And from that hour, queen of my heart, Was lovely Ellen Day. She was my partner in the dance,

Beneath the greenwood tree;
She song a ballad which rehearsed
True love's sad history;
I then was young, my locks were dark,
But now, my hair is gray: Yet never voice seemed sweet to me, As that of Ellen Day.

The live-long day, my heart was light, For she was by my side; And though a boy, I inly vowed, To win her for my bride : That evening, as we homeward walked, I gave my heart away, And gained another; 'twas the heart, Of lovely Ellen Day.

Four years sped by-another year, And at the altar we Most fondly boped to link for aye, Our earthly destiny: But oh! before the year had fied, Death bore my love away ; And laid within the grave so cold. My lovely Ellen Day.

I mourn her yet; the only charm Of life has passed away; For, oh! my heart is buried in The grave of Ellen Day. Long years have fled, yet by her grave, I daily kneel, and pray; And soon, I hope to lay me down, Beside my Ellen Day.

I See A Man. I do not see his shabby dress. I see him in his manliness, I see his axe; I see his spade; I see a man that God has made; If such a man before you stand, Give him your heart-give him your hand, And praise your Maker for such men, They make this old earth new again.
